

BIOGRAPHY

Dr. Antero Honkasalo is the director of the unit of environmental protection in industry and trade at Ministry of The Environment. He also has a docent post at Lappeenranta University of Technology and at Helsinki School of Economics.

In his research Honkasalo has studied occupational risk taking, environmental management systems, eco-efficiency, product policy and preconditions of sustainable development.

He has been the chairman of the steering group of the Finnish environmental cluster research program and a member and secretariat of the co-ordination group of environmental research of Ministry of The Environment.

He has also been a Finnish representative in Working Party for National Environmental Policy of OECD, in different working groups of Nordic Council of Ministers and in the IMPEL-network (Implementation and enforcement of environmental law) of European Union.